

Explorations in Heritage Language Bilingualism and Linguistic Epistemology: A Focus on Romance Heritage Language Acquisition

WHEN
Friday, April 13, 2012
4:00pm

WHERE
Toy Lounge, 4th Floor
Dey Hall

Jason Rothman, PhD

Assistant Professor of Spanish and Linguistics in the Departments of Spanish and Portuguese Studies and Linguistics at the University of Florida. Dr. Rothman's research examines the cognitive processes of adult second language acquisition (SLA), adult multilingual (L3/Ln) acquisition, heritage language acquisition, child first language acquisition as well as comparative SLA theory epistemology and sociolinguistic studies of language and identity.

Sponsored By:

Department of Romance Languages and Literatures, Cognitive Science Program,
Institute for the Study of the Americas, UNC Program in Latina/o Studies